THE MAYOR'S EDITORIAL

The year 2025 is already behind us. Here's to 2026!

On behalf of all the elected officials and municipal staff, I wish you a wonderful year and extend my best wishes for happiness and good health. May this new year also bring you serenity in this turbulent world. Something we all need.

The local elections will take place in a few weeks. Therefore, this issue contains no information regarding any future projects, as this newsletter should not be used as a campaign tool. However, we do address the practical information regarding the elections. It is always useful to review some of the rules.

As we reach the end of the term, some councilors will be retiring from elected life. Putting yourself forward for the position of a municipal councilor is a powerful act of civic engagement, the significance of which I witness every day. Some of our outgoing councilors have been elected for around forty years. This longevity in local politics is a remarkable achievement.

Throughout these years, we have worked together in town council meetings, committees, working groups, and steering committees, and I can affirm that this collective effort has always been constructive and effective. The projects and achievements are not the mayor's doing, but rather the result of collaborative work, built collectively.

I would therefore like to thank all the elected officials of the town for their commitment, with special mention for those who are about to step down. Whether they have served one term or seven, their dedication to our town and our region deserves to be honored. They have given their free and professional time for the common good.

A heartfelt thank you for this commitment.
