

L'écho des sources

Bulletin municipal d'informations
de Chef-Boutonne

N°17

Sept. Oct.
2025

NEW!

This month's editorial is now online

THE MAYOR'S EDITORIAL

After a few weeks of respite, September has already arrived, which means "back to school" and a new year begins for the associations. To share this important moment, we are once again organising an association forum. This is your chance to meet the association volunteers or choose yourself a new activity. They need you.

I would like to take this opportunity to salute all the achievements of our young people: whether at school or at an association level, these young people have shown a positive side to their discipline and have put our community in the spotlight. Read more inside about their achievements. Thank you to them.

Furthermore, in this issue, we wanted to discuss the acquisition of land near the Boutonne river. In the 2020 municipal project, we indicated our desire to reclaim the land along this waterway. These acquisitions will allow for better access along the river in the future. An article about these purchases can be found inside.

In this issue, as in previous ones, we discuss waste management and the necessary actions everyone must take. I would like to conclude these words by emphasising this topic. For four years now, reducing household waste has been a reality in our municipality. The results demonstrate this. However, if we want to keep costs at an acceptable level, we must go even further. If we generate less waste, we don't need to process it. When there is waste, sorting it is essential. Many solutions currently exist. Let's all work together in this. The municipality aims to be exemplary and so therefore we are currently reviewing all the waste management methods for which we are responsible. We also want to participate in these efforts.